Want Milk Train

The local Dairymen's Association, which comprises about 100 members, are making preparations to take active steps towards securing a morning milk train, as they are in great danger of losing the Calgary trade unless different railroad arrangements are made. The citizens of Didsbury besides the business men are almost as vitally interested in this as the Association themselves and whatever steps are taken by the Association should be backed up energetically by the town. Petition forms will be held by J. V. Berscht and H. E. Osmond who request that as many people as possible call upon them to sign these petitions.

Ancient Egyptians Were Ahead

The announcement is made by a British scientist that he has discovered how the ancient Egyptians incubated chickens to the number of 120,000,000 a year. He has found incubators which he declares were used in Egypt five thousand years ago.

The secret has been well guarded, but it is laid bare at last. They had no oil stoves or gas or electric heated incubators, but they had ovens which worked much better, even though they required more constant tending. Each oven was calculated to hold seven thousand eggs, and the fuel by which it was heated consisted of chopped straw and dung, but for the last ten days of the hatching, the energy was supplied altogether by the chickens themselves.

It is the commonest error of those operating our modern incubators to use too much heat, especially toward the end of the period, and now we may learn from the old Egyptians how not to do things as well as how to do them. The use of the straw and other light fuel shows that the Egyptians were most careful to avoid too intense heat at any time. We thought that we were the first to use incubators, but we are fifty centuries behind the times.

It Bids Pain Begone.—When neuralgia racks the nerves or lumbago cripples the back is the time to test the virtues of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. Well rubbed in it will still the pain and produce a sensation of ease and rest. There is nothing like it as a liniment for its curative properties are great. A trial of it will establish faith in it.

Urchin (to doctor)—Please, sir, have you had to visit the landlord's boy many times?

Doctor—Yes, my boy; every day for a week, and I shall have to visit him for another week.

Not of money you'll forget me, sir.

It was he that pushed him off the wall.

Tribulation

He—Darling, why are you so sad?
She (gurgling down a sob)—Oh, dear I was just thinking this will be our last evening together until tomorrow night!

HAS BEEN AN UNTOLD BENEFIT

NEW BRUNSWICK WOMAN PRAISES DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

She Suffered for Four Years and the Doctor Could Not Help Her, But Dodd's Kidney Pills Gave Her a New Lease of Life.

Porton, Carleton Co., N.B. (Special).—"I find Dodd's Kidney Pills the best kidney medicine I have ever used. They have been of untold benefit to me."

The speaker is Mrs. John S. Dickinson of this place. She is enthusiastic in her praises of the great Canadian kidney remedy, and not without reason.

"I suffered from kidney trouble that started in a cold," she continues, "and for four years I was never free of it. I was treated by a doctor, but he did not seem to be able to do me much good."

"I had rheumatism and neuralgia, and my joints were stiff; my muscles cramped, and I was always tired and nervous. I perspired freely, with the slightest exertion. I was depressed and I had dragging sensations across the loins."

"Nine boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills made a new woman of me."

Are not Mrs. Dickinson's symptoms those of any run-down, worn-out woman? They are also the symptoms of kidney disease. Dodd's Kidney Pills give new life to run-down women by curing their kidneys.

Judge a Man by His Farm

A farm is the landscape of the owner's heart and the reflex of his mind. If a man can be judged by his clothes, he can more truly be read by his farm, which is an extension of his vestment. Beauty and breed can never be appreciated as a part of environment until they are inner realities. What a man is, inevitably reveals itself in his words and works. A farm adorned with improvements, crops, animals and trees, making a picture of peace and plenty, represents the unfolding and expression of its owner's ideals. It is the wondrous canvas on which he leaves the subtle strokes of genius or mediocrity. It is to the interpreting onlooker a kind of autobiography. Wherefore a farm is exceedingly interesting as an index of the character of its owner.

Bridal Tourists

The bride looked on the mountains
The river's golden strand,
Italian garden fountains
Were tinkling near at hand.
She spoke with cooling kindness,
How fair these vistas are!
The bridegroom in his blindness
Bowed down beneath the car.

From thence did he deliver
Some words about a chain,
Such words as made her shiver
With an astonished pain;
Then to the balmy breezes
She hummed these lines a while:
"Where every prospect pleases
And only man is vile!"

Knee Joint Stiff Three Years*CURED BY NERVILINE

Anyone would marvel at my recovery, writes Mr. Leonard Lotham, a young man well known about Chatham. I had inherited a rheumatic tendency through my mother's family, and in my early days suffered frightfully. About three years ago the pain and stiffness settled in my left knee joint. I was lame and walked with a very distinct limp. Nerviline was brought to my notice and I rubbed it into the stiff joint four or five times a day. It dispelled every vestige of pain, reduced the swelling, took out the stiffness and gave me the full use of my limb again. I don't believe there is a pain-relieving remedy, not a single liniment that can compare with Nerviline. I hope every person with pains, with sore back, with lameness, with lumbago, with neuralgia—I do hope they will try out Nerviline which I am convinced will quickly and permanently cure them.

If Nerviline wasn't a wonderful painless remedy, if Nerviline didn't quickly relieve, if Nerviline wasn't known to be a grand cure for all rheumatic conditions, it wouldn't have been so largely used as a family remedy for the past forty years. No better, stronger, or more soothing liniment made. Get the large 50c. family size bottle; small trial size 25c.; sold by any dealer, anywhere.

Well Fixed, Though

One doesn't have to be particularly sharp to cut a figure in society.

A Sliding Scale

What is the price of your milk? Ten cents a quart.

You can deliver it here daily, but mind the quality is always good. I have a milk tester.

Then it will be five cents more.

A Soft Answer

Hub—I wonder where the money is coming from for that new gown of yours?

Wife—From the mint, I hope, dear. I'd be sorry to think that you were a counterfeit.

CAUGHT COLD*IN WOUND

It may be only a scratch or cut to begin with, but the deadly germs get into it and soon you are a victim of blood-poisoning. You say you caught cold in the wound and it festered. Now it is red and fiery, and threatens serious trouble.

You can never estimate what it is worth to have Dr. Chase's Ointment at hand all the time to apply in just such cases of emergency. The most important thing this ointment does is to prevent blood-poisoning. It depresses the nerves, contracts the small arteries and veins, and stops bleeding. By its antiseptic influence it keeps out the poisonous germs and heals up the wound.

Dr. Chase's Ointment quickly soothes itching and burning and seems to heal more quickly than anything that has been discovered. As a cure for eczema it has never been rivalled, and what more severe test could you apply. To try Dr. Chase's Ointment is to prove its unusual merit and to keep it away at hand for instant use.

MUNICIPALITY OF MOUNTAIN VIEW

WEEDS

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN to the farmers of Mountain View Municipality that the Weed Act will be STRICTLY enforced during 1914. It has been noticed that weeds have been abnormally spreading year by year, and in order to check their growth or exterminate them, drastic measures must be taken in the public interest to check or eradicate them. Those who have weeds upon their land should plan before seeding the best way of freeing their land from them. Either summer-fallow or sow for green feed with the intention of cutting before the weed seed can ripen. If it is found that weeds are in your crop grown for grain you may expect to be compelled to hand pull them. It would be considered a favor if every farmer would send an unsigned postal card to the Secretary stating thereon the quarter sections in his neighborhood where he knows weeds are prevalent and also state the kind of weeds.

BY ORDER OF THE COUNCIL.

GOPHER BOUNTY

The Rural Municipality of Mountain View will pay the following bounty for the destruction of Gophers within the municipality by any method whatsoever:

1 1/2 CENTS EACH UP TO MAY 15TH, 1914

1 CENT EACH BETWEEN MAY 15TH AND JULY 15TH, 1914

The council will not furnish poison this year.

Those who wish to obtain the bounty must produce the whole tail of each gopher to the following councillors or overseers:

Geo. Metz	H. McLean	O. W. Hembling
M. McLean	H. E. Pearson	J. W. Bridge
J. G. Dougherty	A. A. Dyck	W. Rupp
C. J. Dickau	Harry Gibson	Chas. Deadrich

W. Ashton	C. Hutton	H. B. Hengstler
J. W. Francis	B. Koshlargo	Sam Cummins
Abe Smalley	D. McCuen	W. E. Flinn
C. O. Herron		T. B. Simpson

Those who wish to obtain the 1 1/2 cent bounty must produce the gopher tails to any of the above men not later than the 16th day of May.

BY ORDER OF THE COUNCIL,

J. E. STAUFFER, Secretary.

The DIDSBURY PIONEER

SUBSCRIPTION: One Dollar per year in advance. All arrears of six months or more will be at the rate of $1.50 per year. To U. S. $1.50 per year. Advertising rates quoted on application. H. E. OSMOND, Proprietor.

THE debenture bylaw, which is to be voted on April 17th, should be well supported because of the saving that will be effected to the town if carried. We are now, and have been, paying eight per cent interest on $8,000 which amounts every year to the sum of $640 for interest alone. If the debenture is carried we will only be paying six and one-half per cent, which amounts to $520. Consequently the balance of the $726.06 yearly payment of the debenture will be paid on principal and so will clear off the debt as well as pay less interest, otherwise an extra heavy tax rate will have to be levied in one year to pay off this debt.

THIS paper has time and again emphasized the need of a good live Board of Trade or some organization that will look after the interests of the town and district. There is need right now for some such organization to assist the Dairymen's Association of the district in their efforts to secure better milk train service for which they are working. This town receives a direct benefit from the proceeds of the enormous milk trade that is being worked up with Calgary and these men should be made to feel that the business men appreciate the fact that this means ready cash to them, even if some of the farmers do patronize the mail order houses. There are a large number of farmers who are loyal to their home town and it is up to us to assist them in every way possible, to secure better conditions.

HARMONY HAIR BEAUTIFIER

Is just what its name implies.—Just to make the hair glossy, lustrous, more beautiful.—Just to make it easier to dress, and more natural to fall easily and gracefully into the wavy lines and folds of the coiffure.

It leaves a delightful fresh and cool effect, and a lingering, delicate perfume. Will not change or darken the color. Contains no oil; therefore doesn't leave the hair sticky or stringy. CHAPTER XV.
Back to Bellwood

At the office I found this note from Miss Letitia:

Mr. John Knox:

Dear Sir—Kindly oblige me by coming to see me as soon as you get this. Some things have happened. Not that I think they are worth a row of pins, but Hepstbah is an old fool, and she says she did not put the note in the milk bottle. Yours very respectfully,

LETITIA ANN MAITLAND.

I had an appointment with Burton for the afternoon to take Wardrop, if we could get him on some pretext, to Dr. Anderson. That day, also, I had two cases on the trial list. I got Humphreys across the hall to take them over, and evading Hawes' resentful blink I went on my way to Bellwood. It was nine days since Miss Jane had disappeared. On my way out in the train I jotted down the things that had happened in that time. Allan Fleming had died and been buried; the Borough bank had failed; some one had got into the Fleming house and gone through the papers there; Clarkson had killed himself; we had found that Wardrop had sold the pearls; the leather bag had been returned; Fleming's second wife had appeared, and some one had broken into my own house and intentionally or not, had almost sent Margery Fleming over the borderland.

It seemed to me everything pointed in one direction to a malignity against Fleming that extended itself to the daughter. I thought of what the woman who claimed to be the dead man's second wife had said the day before. If the staircase she had spoken of opened into the room where Fleming was shot, and if Schwartz was in town at the time, then, in view of her story that he had already tried once to kill him, the likelihood was that Schwartz was at least implicated.

If Wardrop knew that why had he not denounced him?

Granting that Schwartz had killed Fleming—then who was the woman with Wardrop the night he was robbed? Why did he take the pearls and sell them? How did the number eleven twenty-two come into Aunt Jane's possession? How did the leather bag get to Boston? Who had chloroformed Margery? Who had been using the Fleming house while it was closed? Most important of all now—where was Aunt Jane?

The house at Bellwood looked almost cheerful in the May sunshine as I went up the walk. When I stood once more in the straight hall I listened involuntarily for the tap of Miss Jane's small feet on the stairs. Instead, came Bella's heavy tread and a request from Miss Letitia that I go upstairs.

The old lady was sitting by a window of her bedroom. She did not appear to be feeble. The only change I noticed was a relaxation in the severe tidiness of her dress. I guessed that Miss Jane's exquisite neatness had been responsible for the white ruchings, the soft caps and the spotless shoulder shawls that had made lovely their latter years.

You have taken your own time about coming, haven't you? Miss Letitia asked sourly. If it hadn't been for that cousin of yours you sent here Burton, I'd have been driven to sending for Amelia Miles, and when I send for Amelia Miles for company I am in a bad way.

I have had a great deal to attend to, I said as loud as I could. I came some days ago to tell you Mr. Fleming was dead. After that we had to bury him and close the house. It's been a very sad—

Did he leave anything? she interrupted. It isn't sad at all unless he didn't leave anything.

He left very little. The house perhaps, and I regret to have to tell you that a woman came to me yesterday who claims to be a second wife.

Then, she said, with a snap, there's one other woman in the world as big a fool as my sister Martha was. What do you hear about Jane?

The last time I was here, I shouted, you thought she was dead. Have you changed your mind?

The last time you were here, she said, with dignity, I thought a good many things that were wrong. I thought I had lost some of the pearls but I hadn't.

What? I exclaimed incredulously. She put her hands on the arms of her chair and, leaning forward, shot the words at me viciously.

I said I had lost some of the pearls. Well, I haven't.

She didn't expect me to believe her any more than she believed it herself.

Very well, I said. I am glad to know it was a mistake. Now, the next thing is to find Miss Jane.

We have found her, she said tartly. That's what I sent for you about.

Found her? What on earth do you mean, Miss Letitia? We've been scouring the country for her.

She opened a religious monthly and took out a folded paper. Hepple found it on the back porch under a milk bottle, she explained. Then she read.

The writer knew where Miss Jane was, the inference being that he was responsible. She was well and happy, but she happened to read a newspaper with an account of her disappearance, and it had worried her. Five thousand dollars left in a tin can on the base of the Maitland shaft in the cemetery would bring back the missing lady within twenty-four hours. On the contrary, if the recipient of the letter notified the police it would go hard with Miss Jane.

I am not so sure but what she'd better stay awhile anyhow, Miss Letitia said. Now that we know she is living I ain't so particular when she gets back. She's been notorious lately, anyway.

I had been reading the note again. There's one thing here that makes me doubt the whole story, I said. What's this about her reading glasses were found in the library?

You've got more sense than I've been giving you credit for, Knox. Her glasses are here this minute.

It was a disappointment to me, although the explanation was simple enough. But the really important thing bearing on Miss Jane's departure was when Hepple came into the room.

She abruptly dropped the corners of her apron. There rolled out a heterogeneous collection of things—a white muslin garment which proved to be a nightgown, with long sleeves and high collar; a half dozen hair curlers—I knew these, Edith had been seen in midnight emergencies with her hair twisted around just such instruments of torture—a shoe buttoner, a railroad map and one new and unworn black kid glove.

Where did you get em? said Miss Letitia, fixing Hepple with an awful eye.

I found 'em stuffed under the blankets in the chest of drawers in the attic, Hepple shouted at her. If we'd washed blankets last week as I wanted to—

Shut up, Miss Letitia said shortly, and Hepple's thin lips closed with a snap. Now, then Knox, what do you make of that?

If that's the nightgown she was wearing the night she disappeared, I think it shows one thing very clearly, Miss Maitland. She was not abducted, and she knew perfectly well what she was about. None of her clothes was missing, and that threw us off the track. But look at this new glove! She may have had new things to put on and left the old. The map—well, she was going somewhere with a definite purpose.

I don't believe a word of it, the old lady burst out. She didn't have a secret; she was the kind that couldn't keep a secret. She wasn't responsible, I tell you, she was extravagant. Look at that glove! And she had three pairs half worn in her bureau.

Miss Maitland, I asked suddenly, did you ever hear of eleven twenty-two?

Eleven twenty-two what? Just the number eleven twenty-two, I repeated. Has it any significance? I should say it has, she retorted. In

Zam-Buk Does Cure Piles

Mrs. C. Hanson, wife of the proprietor of the Commercial Hotel, Poplar, B.C., suffered from piles for years. Went to doctor after doctor in vain. Finally went to Spokane and had an operation. Twelve months afterwards she was as bad again. She says: "One day I read about Zam-Buk and thought I would try it. The first one or two boxes gave me more ease than anything else I had tried, so I went on with the treatment. In a short time I began to feel altogether different and better, and I saw that Zam-Buk was going to cure me. Well, I went on using it, and by the time I had used six boxes I was delighted to find myself entirely cured."

If you suffer from this painful ailment, or from eczema, ulcers or any skin disease, don't waste time. Try Zam-Buk. 50c. all druggists and stores.

It has no other connection?

I loaned Allan Fleming a thousand dollars once. I guess my mind was falling. It would be about eleven twenty-two by this time.

Neither of which explanations sufficed for the little scrap found in Miss Jane's room. What connection, if any, had it with her flight? Where was she now? What was eleven twenty-two? And why did Miss Letitia deny that she had lost the pearls, when I already knew that nine of the ten had been sold, who had bought them and approximately how much he had paid?

The First Blanket

The cold winter of 1940 gave us the blanket. Its inventor, Thomas Blanket, was a Welsh merchant, settled in Bristol, and fallen from affluence to want. He and his wife suffering from the intense cold by reason of scanty bedding and lack of fuel, he searched for something to put on the bed to increase the warmth and hit on a piece of rough unfinished cloth that had been thrown to waste. Its success as a warm-giver suggested the manufacture of special bed covers of the same material, and these articles, to which he gave his own name, won him wealth and immortality.

A Real Asthma Relief. Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy has never been advertised by extravagant statements. Its claims are conservative indeed, when judged by the cures which it performs. Expect real relief and permanent benefit when you buy this remedy and you will not have cause for disappointment. It gives permanent relief in many cases where other so called remedies have utterly failed.

A Weighty King

One of the most interesting monarchs who bask under British protection is King George Tabur II., whose kingdom—the Tonga Islands—is situated in an obscure corner of the South Pacific Ocean.

King George can claim to be a man of weight, for he turns the scales at 309 pounds. He governs by means of a native parliament the sessions of which seem to be mainly determined by the amount and quantity of the edibles collected at the capital.

The worry germ causes a lot of unnecessary trouble.

NO GUSHER
But Tells Facts About Postum

This lady found an easy and safe way out of the ills caused by coffee. She says:

"We quit coffee and have used Postum for the past eight years, and drink it nearly every meal. We never tire of it."

"For several years previous to quitting coffee I could scarcely eat anything on account of dyspepsia, bloating after meals, palpitation, sick headache—in fact was in such misery and distress I tried living on hot water and toast." (Tea is equally injurious because it contains caffeine, the same drug found in coffee.)

"Hearing of Postum I began drinking it and found it delicious. My ailments disappeared, and now I can eat anything I want without trouble."

"My parents and husband had about the same experience. Mother would often suffer after eating, while yet drinking coffee. My husband was a great coffee drinker and suffered from indigestion and headache."

"After he stopped coffee and began Postum both ailments left him. He will not drink anything else now and we have it three times a day. I could write more but am no gusher—only state plain facts."

Name given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont. Write for a copy of the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville."

Postum now comes in two forms: Regular Postum—must be well boiled. 15c. and 25c. packages.

Instant Postum—is a soluble powder. A teaspoonful dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water and, with cream and sugar, makes a delicious beverage instantly. 30c. and 50c. tins.

The cost per cup of both kinds is about the same.

COLLAPSIBLE AIRSHIP

Dirigible Used as Scout May Readily be Taken Apart for Transport

A dirigible which may be readily taken apart, with a short transported gondola capable of being easily transported by rail or road, has undergone successful tests by the French government, and will be used as a scout cruiser in the aerial navy of that country. It is equipped with a horizontal propeller by which it may be lowered within reach of the landing crew without the use of guide ropes. Vertical descents have been made from as great a height as 1,000 feet by this means and the number of men required to operate the car is thus reduced considerably. Two vertical propellers besides the horizontal one are provided, and two 90 horse power engines drive the dirigible at a speed of about 40 miles an hour. When taken apart, the dirigible is loaded upon two trucks, each hauled by a tractor. Later models will be so constructed so it is said, that the gondola will take the place of one tractor. The gas bag has a capacity of about 230,000 cubic feet.

Mothers, ask yourself this question: Is your baby a good baby? If not he is not well, for it is the nature of all babies to be good—only the sickly baby is cross and hard to mind. If baby is cross and cries continually give him Baby's Own Tablets and he will soon be happy again. The Tablets act as a gentle laxative, regulate the bowels, sweeten the stomach and cure all the minor ills of little ones. Concerning them Mrs. J. P. Richard, St. Norbert, N.S., writes: "I have found Baby's Own Tablets all that is claimed for them. My baby suffered from his stomach and bowels and the Tablets cured him." They are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Antiquities in Danger

Hidden away in the national museums and libraries and zealously guarded are a number of priceless manuscripts and books which but for a fortunate chance might have been lost to the world. The chief treasure of a museum at St. Petersburg is the oldest known Greek manuscript of the New Testament, which was about to be burned by the monks of a Syrian monastery, when by a lucky chance one of the priests, struck with the antiquity of the manuscript, interfered in time to save what had been thought valueless.

The Homs Virtues

Mrs. Peterby says she believes in all the modern home virtues. I suppose she refers to playing bridge, neglecting the children, and quarrelling with the servants.

The worms that infest children from their birth are of two kinds, those that find lodgement in the stomach and those that are found in the intestines. The latter are the most destructive, as they cling to the walls of the intestines and if not interfered with work havoc there. Miller's Worm Powders dislodge both kinds and while expelling them from the system serve to repair the damage they have caused.

A Famous Desperado

He Was the Most Daring of All Villains.

By JOHN Y. LARNED

We have stories of eminent rascals, such as Dick Turpin, Claude Duval and others, real or fictitious, but for reckless effrontery coupled with an ambition for important criminal achievements none of these villains overtops Colonel Thomas Blood, who flourished in England during the protectorship of the Cromwells and the reign of Charles II. One of Oliver Cromwell's sons gave Blood large grants of land in Ireland, which were confiscated on the restoration of the legitimate monarch. From this he began his career as a desperado of high degree. The following story does not deviate from the main facts of his boldest and last attempt:

One April morning in the year 1671 a gentleman and a lady visited the Tower of London. It had not yet become the museum it is today, but the kings of England and princes of the blood had ceased to reside there, except when one of them was confined with the expectation of having his head lopped off either in the yard or on Tower hill, close at hand. The crown jewels were kept there, but the iron grating which now protects them had not been constructed.

While looking at the bauble insignia of British sovereignty the lady suddenly fell into the gentleman's arms, apparently having fainted. He looked about him for some resting place on which to lay her, but, seeing no lounge or bed, he said to an attendant:

"My wife is very ill. Will you not ask the keeper's permission to remove her to a room where there is a bed?"

The attendant hurried away and soon returned with an invitation for the lady's husband to carry her into the private apartments of the keeper himself, Mr. Edwards.

"Heaven bless you, sir," said the anxious husband, "my poor wife is

"Has your daughter a husband in view?"

"A husband! Alas, no! She meets no young men here except jailers. Her only suitor is the headman's son, and I wouldn't have her marry him for a kingdom. Besides, we have no dowry to give her."

"What a shame," said the visiting lady, "that such a pretty girl should go unclaimed!"

"It shall not be," said the gentleman, bringing his fist down on a table. "What? So comely a wench to spend her days here? What say you, wife, to a match between our nephew Ralph and little Ruth?"

"I say that if Mr. Edwards will give us his daughter to wed with Ralph on the day of the nuptials I will give the groom a thousand pounds."

"We should be pleased," said the mother, "to see the young man and make his acquaintance. If he be steady and pleases our daughter you offer will be accepted."

"Well said," replied the gentleman.

"Dinner is served," said Mrs. Edwards at this juncture. "Dine with us and we will arrange a time for you to bring your nephew."

The invitation was accepted, and when all were seated at the table the visiting gentleman bent his head reverently and said grace with great fervor. After dinner the guests were shown over the house.

"What a fine brace of weapons!" remarked the gentleman, bending over a case of pistols.

"Being the keeper of the crown jewels, I am likely to have use for them," replied Mr. Edwards.

"My friend," said the other sententiously, "do you know those pistols are just what I want for a friend of mine? What are they worth?"

"I paid a guinea for them."

"I will give you double the amount."

"No; since you wish for them you shall have them for what I paid."

When the pair left the Tower the visitor took the pistols with him.

"Now, you men listen attentively to what I have to say. My plan is simple and can be carried out without difficulty if every one knows his part and does it. Parrot, you are to take the globe. Hunt, you are to take a file and a bag with you, make two parts of the scepter with the file and put the parts in the bag."

"What are you going to take, colonel?" asked a third man, Holloway.

"I shall take the crown. You, Holloway, are to remain outside the jewel room and watch. Let each man carry a cane with a sword in it and all the arms he can conceal in his clothing. See to it that these instructions are carried out to the letter."

"All right, colonel," said Hunt. "We'll stand by you and do our parts, but I must say that this is the most ambitious move you have ever made. To take the crown jewels of England from the Tower in broad daylight and get away with them is a bigger job than taking Old Noll's body from Westminster abbey."

It was the 9th of May at 7 o'clock in the morning. Colonel Blood, the gentleman who had established himself in the confidence of the Edwards family, knocked at the door of the keeper's apartments with three companions, Hunt, Parrot and Holloway. Being admitted, he apologized for the nonappearance of his wife and nephew, saying that they would soon arrive. The friends he had with him desired to see the crown jewels and would Mr. Edwards kindly show them while waiting for the others? The keeper consented; the party entered the jewel room, and the door, as usual, was closed.

In a twinkling the keeper was on the door bound and gagged. But he struggled and was stabbed. Parrot, who had worn a loose pair of breeches purposely, thrust the globe in his pocket. Blood crushed the crown to save bulk and put it under his cloak, while Hunt began to file the scepter in two parts to get it into the bag.

While this scene was being enacted a young soldier from the British army in Flanders entered the Tower gate and went to the apartment of the keeper. Throwing open the door, he took his mother into his arms and then embraced his sister.

"Where's father?" he asked.

"He's in the jewel room with some visitors."

"What's that?" exclaimed the young man, bearing a cry, and, without waiting to say more to his mother and sister, ran to the jewel room. Just before he passed in the visitors passed out. The young man found his father on the floor covered with blood, bound and gagged, but able to make a guttural sound. Pointing to the door, his son understood what he meant, and, running after the thieves, shouted to the guard to stop them. They were all taken and the regalia found on them.

"It was a bold attempt," said Blood, "but it was for a crown."

It would seem that there was nothing more to our story but to mention the hanging of Colonel Blood and his assistants at Tyburn. But the close, though not exciting, is the most remarkable chapter of all. Blood refused to plead except to the king privately. He managed to secure an interview with Charles II. and then made statements that changed the situation.

Charles had in his childhood become a wanderer in foreign lands. His father had died at the block. After many privations he had been recalled to the throne of England. His object was to pacify the various factions and cement them that he might have a peaceful reign. Under these circumstances it was natural that a desperado like Blood should affect him. He had been on both sides during the parliamentary war, at one time having joined the "fifth monarchy men." He convinced the king that his death—if he was executed—would be avenged by hundreds of his associates.

Another influence doubtless prevailed. Charles was an immoral man himself and admired any villain who was brave as well as wicked.

By hanging Blood Charles could have got rid of him, but even in his power so desperate a man was to be feared. The king pardoned him, restored his confiscated estates, and he was often thereafter seen in the presence chamber.

Dreams That Differed.

They were seated in one of those sheltered nooks for which Brighton is famous. He had just proposed and been accepted, and in blissful accents they were discussing their future prospects.

"You know I am not a rich man, darling," said Edwin.

"Ah, I care for you, dear, not for wealth," answered Angelina, rapturously.

"And we shall have to begin our married life very humbly," he continued.

"What care I how humbly?" was a heroic response. "A small cottage in some secluded spot, with daisies climbing over the door, and a rose-clad summer-house, in which we may sit and talk—your Angey for nothing more."

"But, darling, I am afraid it won't run to a cottage. Two rooms and a kitchen, perhaps, somewhere near the office, where rents are cheap, and—"

A cloud came over the scene. Angelina is still free.

Pekin's Temple of Heaven.

China's famous Temple of Heaven was formerly visited once a year by the emperor to give an account of his empire and its affairs during the previous twelve months. This was set forth in writing, and the manuscripts were then placed in the furnace and in that way consigned to the emperor in heaven. The Temple of Heaven is one of the most beautiful and interesting sights of picturesque Peking. The walls inclosing the temple, the royal apartments, the altar and the grounds are three miles in circumference, and the white marble structures with their blue and green porcelain tiles have to be seen to be appreciated.

This Side Up.

This story is told of a well-known impressionist artist. A man who had brought one of his paintings wished his opinion on the hanging of the picture and invited him to dine. The artist expressed his approval of the background, of the height at which the canvas was hung, pronounced the light favorable—indeed, he said, there was only one particular in which he would suggest any change.

"And what is that?" inquired his host, solicitously.

"Why," said the artist, "I should hang it the other side up. I always have."

A Man's Tact.

Nobody but Mr. Henley would have asked such a question in the first place.

"Miss Fairley," he said, "if you could make yourself over what kind of hair and eyes would you have?"

"If I could make myself over," said Miss Fairley, "I would look just exactly as I do now."

"You would," exclaimed Henley in honest surprise, and to this day he can't understand why Miss Fairley thinks him a man of little taste and less tact.

New Iron Kettles.

The best way to prepare a new iron kettle for use is to fill it with clean potato peelings, boil them for an hour or more, then wash the kettle with hot water, wipe it dry and rub it with a little lard; repeat the rubbing for half a dozen times after using. In this way you will prevent rust and all annoyances liable to occur with the use of a new kettle.

HIS GOOD-BYE TO "JIMMIE."

The closest friend of Capt. Robert Scott, the English explorer, who with three companions met death "like English gentlemen," last February while on the return trip from a polar expedition was J. M. Barrie, the author and playwright. Peter Scott, only son of the dead hero, is Barrie's godson and gets his first name from the playwright's "Peter Pan." Scott and Barrie, both quiet, retiring men and inveterate pipe smokers, were kindred souls for years and were constantly together in and about London. One of the last messages found beside the captain's body in his tomb of ice was directed to "Jimmie" Barrie. Written in lead pencil, and toward the end going off into almost indecipherable scratches, it closes with the abruptness of a thing written by a dying hand. A more poignant farewell one cannot conceive than the following:

"We are pegging out in a very comfortable spot. Hoping this letter may be found and sent to you, I write a word of farewell. I want you to help my widow and my boy—your godson. We are showing that Englishmen can still die with a bold spirit, fighting it out to the end. It will be known that we have accomplished our object in reaching the pole, and that we have done everything possible, even to sacrificing ourselves, in order to save sick companions. I think that the country ought to help those who are left behind to mourn us. Good-bye. I am not at all afraid of the end, but sad to miss many a humble pleasure which I had planned for the future on our long marches. I may not have proved a great explorer, but we have done the greatest march ever made and come very near to great success. Good-bye, my dear friend."

"We are very near the end, but have not and will not lose our good cheer. We have had four days of storm in our tent and nowhere's food or fuel. We did intend to finish ourselves when things proved like this, but we have decided to die naturally in the track. As a dying man, my dear friend, be good to my wife and child. Give the boy a chance in life if the state won't do it. He ought to have good stuff in him. * * * I never met a man in my life whom I admired and loved more than you, but I never could show you how much your friendship meant to me, for you had much to give and I nothing."

Stage Superstitions.

The ill-fortune which has led for the second time to the premature closing of the London Opera House will go far to substantiate the superstitions of stage folk. Actors have their own peculiar code of fancies. You must not whistle in the dressing room, under penalty of being thrust out (whatever your deshabille) to turn round three times in the passage before regaining admittance. For to whistle is to invite bad luck for "the show." Again in rehearsal the tag, or final words of the play must never be uttered. And you must not open an umbrella on the stage. Many other things are regarded as ominous in stageland, so can you wonder that Maiden Lane shook its head when the London Opera House was opened on Nov. 13, 1911? There was confirmation when Mr. Hammerstein closed it on the thirteenth of a month—July 13, 1911.

First Dublin Strike.

Probably the first Dublin strike occurred about 100 years ago, when the piers of Kingstown harbor were being constructed. The material was raised in the granite quarries at Killiney, close by, and "coasted" down a tramway. Major Sirr, who played a notorious part in Dublin during the insurrection of 1798, was walking up the tramway when he heard a discharge of artillery. He turned round just as a loaded wagon was started, and being right in the way would have been killed but for the promptness of the brakeman. When the news reached the quarries there was an instant strike. The workmen insisted on the dismissal of the brakeman on the ground that "it was none of his business to save the major's life."—London Daily Chronicle.

To Stop Violence.

The Bengal Government has announced that in view of the continuance of political and other dacoity in India, gun licences will be freely issued to merchants and other men of good standing in the rural districts, on condition that they employ pensioned sepoy as armed watchmen. There has been an increase in the number of murders in Bengal, the inspector-general reports; and he mentions that in many cases the crime is committed on the slightest provocation. The following instance is given: A man threatened that he would inherit his son-in-law, who thereupon hired someone to murder him. Ten rupees ($3.75) was the price asked and given.

Some Names.

Goose, Gooling and Jocelyn as surnames are corruptions of a word which originally denoted the Goths. The first Mr. Gander was an individual called "the volt," while the original Mr. Duck was a "doughty" man.

Recipe Notes

Some Recipes From a Recently Issued Cookbook.

The latest addition to culinary literature contains a recipe for brown bread, contributed by the former Mrs. Cleveland: "Take one bowlful of Indian meal, one bowlful of rye flour and one bowlful of sour milk, one large cupful of molasses, one teaspoonful of salt. Steam for two and a half hours and bake from twenty minutes to half an hour, depending upon the heat of the oven."

Mrs. William Jennings Bryan gives a recipe for strawberry conserve that sounds very good. Four boxes of strawberries and one pineapple are required. Crush the berries a little. Put pineapple through a meat grinder, using coarsest wheel. Place pineapple over slow fire until juice comes out; add berries. If there does not seem to be juice enough to keep fruit from burning add a little water. When the fruit is tender add sugar to taste. Boil down to the thickness desired. Stir constantly.

Mrs. Albert Sidney Burleson, wife of the postmaster general, is a native of Texas, and she has given a recipe for genuine Texas corn bread. She says:

"The best corn bread in the world is made of simple cornmeal, scalded with a little boiling water and thinned with cold water; salt and melted lard, two tablespoonfuls to a cupful of meal. Bake in a shallow pan inside the oven or on a griddle on top of the stove. We never eat corn bread made in any other way."

Very quaint are the recipes furnished by Mrs. Champ Clark, wife of the speaker of the house of representatives, for some of them date back to revolutionary days. Here is one: "Twelve dress beef sufficient for two gentlemen, with a fire made of two newspapers."

"Let the beef be cut in slices and put on a pewter platter. Pour on water sufficient to cover the slices, salt and pepper to taste and cover with another platter, inverted. Place the dish upon a stool, bottom upward, the legs of such a length as to raise the platter several inches from the board. Cut the newspapers into strips, light with a candle and apply them gradually, so as to keep a low fire under the whole dish. When the paper is all done the steak will be done. Butter may be applied so as to make it grateful."

Mrs. Clark is also the happy possessor of Martha Washington's recipe for pear preserves:

"Ye pears should be very fresh. Wash and put yhem into boiling lye for a minute. Remove and place yhem in cold water. Next put ye fruit into prepared sirupe of sugar and water. Use half a pound of sugar for everie pound of ye fruit; water to dissolve. Now cook for a quarter of an hour. Remove and put on plates to cool. Boyle sugar down to one-half its original quantitie. Put ye sirupe and pears into jars and add brandy. Seal while hot."

Mrs. Josephus Daniels, wife of the secretary of the navy, is a native of North Carolina, and she gives the recipe for the famous North Carolina white fruit cake. It is as follows:

Cream together one pound of butter and one pound of sugar. Add the beaten yolks of ten eggs, two grated coconuts, two pounds of citron, sliced thin and cut in little pieces; one pound of almonds, blanched and broken in small pieces. Dredge fruit with flour. Flavor with mace and nutmeg and a wineglassful of brandy. Fold in the well beaten whites of the eggs. Mix as for pound cake.

Scalloped Oysters.

Drain the liquid from a quart of stewing oysters and set it aside. In the bottom of a buttered bakeshew strew a layer of crushed cracker crumbs; season with paprika and salt; dot with butter and wet with oyster liquor and milk in equal quantities. Next put a layer of oysters, seasoned in like manner, then more crumbs, proceeding thus until the dish is full or you have used up all the materials. The top layer should be crumbs with a double allowance of butter. Pour in the rest of the liquor, cover closely and bake. At the end of half an hour or when the surface begins to bubble remove the cover and brown lightly.

After exhaustive researches in Paris a famous French scientist has recommended a diet equally divided between meats and vegetables as the best for working people.

suffering greatly, and were it not for your kindness I don't know what we should do."

"You are welcome, sir, I assure you, to my dwelling place and to remain here with your lady as long as she is too ill to be taken away."

The lady gradually recovered. Meanwhile her husband, who had a seductive manner and tongue, ingratiated himself into the good graces of the keeper and his family. After remaining there some time the invalid declared that she was able to leave, and with a profusion of thanks for the favor received they departed.

"What a fine gentleman!" exclaimed Mrs. Edwards.

"And such a gentle lady!" remarked their daughter.

A few days later the same couple called on the keeper's family, bringing with them a present of gloves as a token of their gratitude for the kindness they had received. Shut up as the Edwards were, in the gloomy fortress, they were much pleased to see those who visited them, and they were especially delighted that the entertaining stranger and his refined looking wife should be so appreciative of what they had done for them.

Ruth Edwards was a pretty girl of seventeen, and the gentleman appeared to take a great fancy to her.

"Is she your only child?" he asked.

"No; I have a son a soldier with our army in Flanders. But he will soon be at home. He writes that his regi-

(3) There shall be attached to each of the said debentures coupons for the payment of sums payable annually as aforesaid in respect of each of the debentures.

(4) Each of the said debentures and the coupons attached thereto shall be signed by the Mayor and Secretary-Treasurer of the said Town of Didsbury, and each of the said debentures shall be sealed with the corporate seal of the said Town.

(5) The said debentures and coupons shall be payable in Canadian Currency at the office of the Royal Bank of Canada, at Didsbury, Alberta.

(6) During the currency of the said debentures there shall be raised annually by special rate on all the rateable property in the said Town of Didsbury the sum of $726.06 for the purpose of paying in the amount due in each of the said years for principal and interest in respect of the said debt.

(7) This by-law shall take effect on the 20th day of April, A.D. 1914.

(8) This by-law shall be submitted to the burgesses of the said Town of Didsbury qualified to vote thereon, and for the purpose of taking the votes of such burgesses thereon a poll shall be held at the following time and place, namely: On Friday, the 17th day of April, A.D. 1914, beginning at the hour of ten o'clock in the forenoon and continuing till the hour of seven o'clock in the afternoon of the same day, at the Fire Hall, on Osler Street, in the Town of Didsbury.

Shooting Accident

Residents of the town and district will learn with regret that Clinton Reiber, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Reiber of Didsbury, was accidentally shot in the leg on Friday last. Clint was accountant and teller at the Royal Bank at Beiseker, having been moved from the local branch of the bank to Beiseker a short time ago. It appears that a companion by the name of Clemens was handling a revolver when it was discharged in some way with the result stated above. He was brought home on Sunday last and is now under Dr. A. J. Weart's care. What the outcome of the accident will be is hard to tell as there is a danger of blood poisoning. However, it is to be sincerely hoped that Clint will again be seen taking his share in local athletic events.

Wedding Bells

On Thursday evening of last week a very pretty home wedding was celebrated at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Tuggle of Westcott, when their eldest daughter, Bessie Ioda, was joined in matrimony to Mr. E. M. Stringer of Westcott.

The bride, being beautifully attired in cream messaline silk with lace ornamentation, looked her best as she entered the drawing room to the strains of the pianoforte wedding march by Miss Leorea Tuggle. The happy pair were ably attended by Miss V. Hunsperger and Mr. N. Tuggle, while Rev. J. S. Daum of Didsbury ceremonially officiated. A sumptuous repast was then heartily indulged in by about fifty guests, the immediate relatives and neighbors of the contracting parties.

Many beautiful and useful gifts testified to the high esteem in which the bride is being held by her many friends, also the expressed pleasure at the fact of the bride remaining right in her own neighborhood bespoke much of real worth and friendship.

May the coming years bring much of joy and prosperity to Mr. and Mrs. Stringer.

Westcott

Several of the young people of Westcott serenaded the newly married couple, Mr. Myrt Stringer and Miss Bessie Tuggle, a few nights ago and the outcome was an oyster supper and social evening on Friday night last at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brown, Westcott, at which the happy couple were guests. The evening was spent in playing games of different kinds after which all the guests sat down to a fine oyster supper provided out of the funds received from the serenade. After the evenings amusement had come to a close the guests gave a hearty send off to the happy bride and bridegroom.

Give That Puny Child

This Guaranteed Remedy

If your child is under-weight, listless, illing, liable to get sick easily, it needs a medicine to build its weight and strength. For this purpose there is nothing else we know of that we can so strongly endorse as Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion. The remarkable success of this splendid medicine is due to the fact that it contains ingredients that tone the nerves, enrich the blood and furnish to the entire system the strength, weight and health-building substances it needs. And, it does all this without injuring the stomach. In fact, Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion is not only pleasant to take, but even the most sensitive stomach is benefited by it, and the digestion improved. On the other hand, it contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs, which most parents object to giving their children. It does its good work by taking hold of the weakness and builds the body up to its natural strength, at the same time making it strong to resist disease.

If Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion doesn't build your child up, feed the stunted, puny muscles, and make the little one lively, strong, well and full of the animal spirits children are meant by nature to have, come back and tell us and get your money back. We don't want you to lose a cent. We think this is no more than fair, and it leaves you no cause to hesitate. For old people also—for convalescents—for all who are nervous, tired-out, run-down, no matter what the cause—we offer Rexall Olive Oil Emulsion with the same guarantee of entire satisfaction or money back. Sold only at the 7,000 Rexall Stores, and in this town only by us, $1.00. H. W. Chambers, Didsbury.

It has been asked us several times,
"How can you afford to give away that beautiful $400.00 Upton Parlor Grand Piano as you advertise you will do?"

Our Answer

We prefer to sell 100 articles at a profit of ten cents each, rather than 10 articles at a profit of one dollar each. It means just ninety more people patronizing our store. The only reason for our being in business is to do business. This means that we must bring the people to our store. Low prices and good values will bring us customers always. Our giving away this piano is simply to bring additional business to our store and it is doing it, every day. It pays you and us.

Answer to "Critic"

EDITOR PIONEER:

Dear Editor,—I feel that I cannot refrain from asking the favor of using a little of your valuable space in answer to our friend "Critic" re Didsbury Band Concert. When my eye caught the heading, while looking through the PIONEER, "Didsbury Band Concert" (By Critic) I must say that I received quite a start and made myself guilty of a serious breach of etiquette by leaving my "liver and onions" to greedily devour the savory remarks of "Critic," which, by the way, were quite acceptable even though somewhat "befuddled," as I will try to point out to our friend "Critic."

In the first place he gives us credit for some progress of late for which we are very grateful, but I am led to wonder whether he has any conception as to the extent of our labors behind the scenes to be able to merit this very acceptable mead of praise.

Now, Mr. Editor, I may say that I am inclined to think that our "Critic" is partial to "Orchestration" as I notice that his criticisms are confined to the Orchestra numbers, and in dealing with the first item contributed by that aggregation our worthy "Critic" says: "The first number by Orchestra, 'The March of the Brownies,' was very 'indifferently rendered,' a breakdown being saved by the first violins." Well, Sir, I would just like to remind the "Critic" that this number by the Orchestra was rendered in a very brilliant and dashing style and evoked a most vociferous applause, which was only appeased by a second rendition of this fine march, which I think did not suggest "breakdown."

In the second number our friend "Critic" says: "This piece, 'Angels Serenade,' was 'splendidly rendered.'" Now, Sir, this is where the difficulty comes in as I am not sure as to whether our friend is giving us an honest criticism or trying to cover up a multitude of our sins, and I would not like to say that he did not just know what he was talking about after his remarks on the "Angels Serenade" as I must candidly admit myself here that this was the only piece by the Orchestra that was "indifferently rendered," and it was here that the boys most surely lost their nerve, and I must say "Thanks" to the "old veteran" who most surely held the situation until the boys were able to get themselves in hand and settle down to their work again, which was certainly quite a task for every member in this delicate but pleasing number.

In his criticism of the duets he complains of the swaying of the body of the violinists to the extent of spoiling the effectiveness of their playing. I this is scarcely warranted as the writer has seen even the violin virtuosos swaying to the extent of a robust oscillation in florid or pesante passages, which seemed to confirm their ability as masters of their instruments rather than make one feel that their playing was spoiled, and as to the "Stichon, pen mit our feet" style of time-keeping I must say too that it is certainly "bad form" but yet in almost every case where this habit is in evidence it is where the performer is still young in the business and lacking that confidence obtained from a thorough knowledge of time, value, and limited experience in solo work, and now, Mr. Editor, in closing I would just like to again thank you for the space used and especially thank our friend Critic for this friendly criticism of our work and I here give him a hearty invitation to come out again on the 3rd and 4th in another two bits and tell us what he thinks again, as I can assure him we need all the pointers and advice we can obtain with a view to the building up of a musical combination that our new Didsbury may well be proud of.

I am, Yours truly,

Less Dyspepsia Now --Here's The Reason

The fact that there is less dyspepsia and indigestion in this community than there used to be is largely, we believe, due to the extensive use of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, hundreds of packages of which we have sold. No wonder we have faith in them. No wonder we are willing to offer them to you for trial entirely at our risk.

Among other things, they contain Pepsin and Bismuth, two of the greatest digestive aids known to medical science. They soothe the inflamed stomach, allay pain, check heartburn and distress, help to digest the food and tend to quickly restore the stomach to its natural, comfortable, healthy state.

There is no red tape about our guarantee. It means just what it says. We'll ask you no questions. Your word is enough for us. If Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets don't restore your stomach to health and make your digestion easy and comfortable, we want you to come back for your money. They are sold only at the 7,000 Rexall Stores, and in this town only by us. Three sizes, 25c, 50c and $1.00. H. W. Chambers, Didsbury
